Aside from being an awful reversal of form the steeplechase was one of the best-contested jumping events off the season. Kernel won by two lengths from Garrett, the favorite, with Guardian a length and a half back. The three came down the stretch in a bunch, any one having a chance. Kernel, however, had the speed of the trio. Guardian deb practically ail the way until two jumps from home, where Ray on Garrett bassed him. Kernel, third up to this point, beran to overtake the leaders, and at the last jump was over leading old sores.
